New England's Monthly Numismatic Catalog

Special Savings on U.S. Coinage & Currency This Month

New England Rare Coin Galleries' numismatists have just completed grading and cataloging all of our purchases from the 1980 American Numismatic Association Convention (held August 18-23 in Cincinnati, Ohio). We've found the volume of those purchases to be greater than we'd originally anticipated, and our inventory is now in an overstock situation. Therefore, in order to move some of our present numismatic and syngraphic properties, New England is offering special savings on all U.S. coins (with the exception of Redfield Morgan Dollars) and U.S. currency offered in this catalog. On orders up to $1,000, you'll be able to save 5% — and on orders over $1,000, save 10%. For details, see the "October Special Value" column at right.

New England Rare Coin Galleries' auction division, New England Rare Coin Auctions, has just published its latest catalog: The David K. Carnegie Sale Catalog. Featured numismatic properties include a beautiful selection of Seated Liberty coinage (including an 1855-S Seated Quarter With Arrows in MS-65, and a rare branch mint proof 1855-S Seated Half Dollar in Proof-65); a complete Indian Quarter Eagles set; more U.S. currency than ever before offered by New England; and over 62 lots of U.S. Double Eagles (including an 18-piece set of 1907-1928 St. Gaudens). For your copy of the fully illustrated David K. Carnegie Sale Catalog, send $5 to: NERCA, P.O. Box 1776, Boston, MA 02105.

Speaking of catalogs, be sure to send for your free subscription to New England's bi-monthly ancient and world coin catalog, New England World Selections. You'll find it full of exquisite world coin offerings and informative feature articles on this fast-growing area of numismatic interest. To receive your free subscription, call your New England Rare Coin Galleries numismatist toll-free.

New England Rare Coin Galleries' numismatic experts

Bruce Dubin

1980 is a silver anniversary year for New England numismatist Bruce Dubin. Twenty-five years ago, his fascination with rare coins began when the U.S. Mint made a now-famous error. "They'd just released a hoard of '55 Lincoln Cent double-strikes. I got my hands on a few because I lived in Worcester (Massachusetts) and hundreds had been distributed through the Boston branch of the Federal Reserve. Those coins fascinated me — not only because of the mint error, but also because of their phenomenal growth. I think I bought my first '55 double-strikes for $1.50 each. Six months later, they were worth $75 each!"

Bruce's initial fascination soon became an obsession. He began to frequent local coin shows and to build an impressive personal collection through ingenious trading. "In those early days, I used to buy an entire collection, pick two or three coins out of the collection for myself, and later sell the remaining pieces for the original collection price. In essence, I built my personal collection for free!" At the same time, Bruce's keen coin sense was employed by other collectors. "I got dozens of calls from people who wanted me to buy coins for them. That was wonderful training because, today, that's a big part of what I do at New England."

It is, in fact, his 25 years of buying experience that Bruce sees as his biggest asset. "When a collector or investor contacts a large numismatic firm, he's buying more than coins — he's also buying trust. He's saying, 'I know how many mistakes there are to be made out there in the market, and I know how costly those mistakes could be.' I've had 25 years of buying experience and, like everyone, I've made my share of mistakes. But I made them before big money entered the market, and I've never repeated them. Instead, I've learned from them. And it's that learning experience that I feel makes me valuable to the collector or investor who's looking for someone he can trust."

Today, Bruce Dubin lives in Boston's western suburbs, and his first encounter with copper coinage is foremost on his mind. "Copper — so long neglected by many collectors — is just now coming into its own. In the last year, the average MS-65 copper piece rose from $90 to $400. That's a greater jump in one year than in the previous 25 years."

Market Report

by Tim LaPointe

At the shows

Three U.S. numismatic conventions highlighted trading activity last month: the Northern California Numismatics Association Convention (September 25-28); the Great Eastern Numismatic Association Convention (September 25-28); and the Long Beach Coin & Stamp Show (October 3-5). These shows were well-attended, with common date gold coinage actively sought by dealers. Foreign coinage in Choice and Gem condition was in critically short supply. Attempts to secure Gem specimens of Japanese, South American, Mexican and Canadian material produced meager results. New England also traveled to London for the British Numismatic Trade Association's COINEX (September 25-27), where British coins traded hands at levels far in excess of established market prices. Colonial coinage continues to be in strong demand. This was most apparent at the third of four planned sales featuring the Garrett Collection conducted by Bowers & Ruddy Galleries on October 1-2. Interest in the collection's Colonial, State and related coinage ran high, with many price records reported broken.

Gold

Since our last report, the Iran-Iraq conflict has threatened the world's oil supply, and gold and silver bullion prices rose in response. Gold topped $700 per ounce and then dipped slightly to the current $675 level. This fluctuation has obviously had an effect on the bullion coin market, with Maple Leafs, Mexican Pesos and Kruggerands experiencing equivalent percentage gains and losses. Rare coin dealers are now actively seeking gold by type, especially Brilliant Uncirculated $10 Indian Gold, $10 Liberty Gold and $5 Liberty Gold. As a result, $10 Indians and Liberty Gold in problem-free Uncirculated condition are becoming harder and harder to locate. Many dealers are also complaining about the low quality of the average St. Gaudens Double Eagles being offered for sale. In the past, a group of 100 St. Gaudens might yield 25-30 pieces in Choice or Gem Condition. Today, however, there are lots of St. Gaudens being traded that have been "picked clean" and contain no Choice or Gem specimens.

Silver

Silver bullion is trading at $21.30 per ounce, up $5 since September. This increase can largely be attributed to the uncertainty of the world's oil supply. Among rare coins, there is hectic demand for silver dollars, with dealers seeking common as well as rare dates. Bid prices for commemorative half dollars have increased in recent weeks as more dealers seek Gem BU specimens. There is also strong demand for early silver coinage (pre-1808) in all circulated grades.

Copper, Nickel, Colonials

Dealers, collectors and investors alike are turning their attention to Indian Cents and early date Lincoln Cents in full-red, uncirculated condition. Particular attention is being paid to the strike of these Lincoln Cents. Early copper coinage (pre-1850) is also attracting interest. The supply of these coins is too short, however, to record any significant transactions. Colonials are also being actively sought, but, with the exception of the Garrett Collection, most offerings are in grades of Fine or lower. The highlight of the third Garrett Sale was a spectacular selection of top-quality Colonial coinage which realized outstanding prices. For instance, a 1652 Willow Tree Sixpence in EF-AU brought $46,000; a 1783 Chalmers Shilling With Rings on Reverse brought $75,000; and a 1776 Continental Dollar in Silver in Very Good Condition brought a $95,000 winning bid. In the nickel market, well-struck early Buffalo Nickels in Gem BU condition were sought by several dealers. New England buyers also noted that many dealers have begun stocking full-steps Jefferson Nickels, and they believe this area will soon be as closely scrutinized as full-band Mercury Dimes.

World Coins

Activity at major conventions and auctions continued to escalate during the last two months. Contributing to this increase is a new and eager type of world coin purchaser: the collector/investor. Strongly influenced by the advice of a growing number of coin investment newsletters, most of which are strongly urging diversification and the purchase of rare, high-quality items, these collector/investors have been deluging New England with Want Lists naming those items which were recommended investments. Lately, this same group of purchasers has been attending major conventions. The net result of their activities has been to accelerate, sometimes greatly, the values of selected items. Two examples: English Gold Proof Sets and English Maundy Sets. Within less than a year the average prices for these items have almost doubled! In discussing the state of the market with dealers from around the world, the general consensus of opinion seems to be that the market will continue to grow at its present rate for at least 3 to 5 years. In offering their opinions, most dealers also noted that they were being as conservative as possible.

October, 1980

The figures in this month's Numismatic Price Index indicate weighted average price trends from August 31, 1980 through September 30, 1980.

|                          |   |      |
|--------------------------|---|------|
| Copper.....              | ↑ | 5.1% |
| Nickel.....              | ↓ | 1.1% |

| Gold.....                |   | 0.0% |
| Coins under $500.....   | ↑ | 1.4% |
| Coins $501-$2,000..... | ↓ | 2.0% |
| Coins over $2,000.....  | ↓ | 0.1% |

The figures above were derived by tracing the price movements of a balanced, representative sample of U.S. rare coins — including 144 major type and better date coins — in MS-65 or Proof-65 condition for the period of one month. I had always assumed that the word "dollar" originated in America until I looked through your world coin catalog, New England World Selections, and saw the German thaler, Austrian taler, Swedish daler and Italian tallero. These coin names are so similar. Do they have a common origin? — L.E., Los Angeles, CA

The first dollar-sized silver coins were issued in the Alpine Province of Tyrol at the end of the 15th Century and proved so popular that many Central European noblemen began producing similar coins. Among them was the Count of Schlik, who had large silver deposits on his estates in the mountains of Bohemia. First minted in 1520, his coins show St. Joachim, with the Schlik coat of arms. The Count of Schlik produced so many of these coins that the name given them — joaimstalers — was also applied to similar coins being minted throughout Europe. The name was abbreviated to talers in Tyrol, and in Germany the coins were known as thalers, in Denmark and Sweden as dalers, in the Netherlands as daalers or daalders, and in Italy as talleri.

The dollar made its way to the New World when the Spanish conquered Mexico, Peru and other parts of America in the 16th Century. The conquistadors recovered vast quantities of silver, much of which was minted into coins. The largest coins were 8 reales, or pieces of eight, which often showed two tall pillars draped in ribbons. These pillars were said to represent the twin rocks which mark the Spanish entrance to the Mediterranean, so the coins were called "pillar dollars" by English-speaking people. The pillar dollar and its fractions were minted in Mexico City, Bolivia, Chile, Colombia, Guatemala and Peru and became the principal coins of the American colonies. Then in 1776, when discussing the introduction of a true American coinage, the Continental Congress was reluctant to choose one based on the British System. After much deliberation, the members chose the familiar and popular Spanish dollar.

I inspected a Roman denarius at a coin show here this month. It had slash marks running across its obverse which, the dealer told me, were made in ancient times for political reasons. Have you ever heard of this? — M.M., Providence, RI

Yes, we have. When an emperor's portrait was placed on Roman coinage, the process was believed to promote that emperor's deification. When an emperor fell from grace — when, for political reasons, Roman citizens no longer wanted to grant him the status of a god — that emperor's coinage was often defaced. In fact, the Roman government even passed an Act of State making public damnation of deceased emperors perfectly legal.

One classic case of such political damnation can be seen on some specimens of the coinage of Emperor Caracalla. In order to ascend the throne, Caracalla had murdered his own brother, Geta.

(Some ancient historians report that Geta was actually lying in his mother's arms when the fratricide occurred.) After Geta's death, Caracalla ordered his brother publicly damned. In many instances, this was accomplished by erasing Geta's portraiture from circulating coinage.

What does it mean to have a coin "upset?" I heard this term used in relation to Morgan Dollars and I assume it has something to do with condition. — B.M., Arlington Heights, IL

"Upsetting" was actually a part of the Morgan Dollar minting process. After blank planchets had been punched from strips of silver, they were cleaned and sent through an upsetting machine. This machine's purpose was to raise the planchets' edges so that full coin rims would be produced during striking. The machines accomplished this by "grinding" the planchets between a smooth rotating wheel and a stationary collar. Early upsetting machines (often called "milling machines") could upset about 120 planchets per minute. Later versions upset as many as 464 per minute.

What is the story behind the 1861-S Liberty Double Eagle reverse — the so-called "Paquet Reverse?" I would like a picture of this reverse compared to the regular reverse of Type One double eagles. — P.K., Louisville, KY

The 1861-S Paquet Reverse was designed by Anthony C. Paquet, an assistant engraver to the United States Mint under Mint Director James B. Longacre. Born in Hamburg, Germany, in 1814, Paquet emigrated to America in 1848. He was an expert die engraver (a skill that Longacre, in his early years at the Mint, lacked) and was appointed to his Mint position on October 20, 1857. So great was his talent that Paquet was soon allowed to design patterns of his own. One of these proved very popular with Mint officials; a modified version of Longacre's Liberty Double Eagle reverse. Paquet's reverse (pictured here, top) featured tall, stylized lettering and a circle of stars located below the rays above the U.S. eagle's head. (In the original design, the top of the star circle landed squarely within the rays — see bottom photo.)

Dies for the Paquet reverse were sent from Philadelphia to the New Orleans and San Francisco mints, but coinage struck in Philadelphia quickly revealed that the new design caused minting problems. Withdrawal of the dies was ordered immediately. In 1861, however, there were no telegraph hook-ups between Mint branches. Before word of the withdrawal reached San Francisco, several 1861-S Paquets had already been produced.

Although the Red Book lists the original mintage of the 1861-S Paquet Reverse Double Eagle as unknown, experts have estimated that around 4,000 were produced. Today, these coins are very scarce. Their cousins, the 1861 Paquets (minted in Philadelphia) are even harder to find and are unpriced in the Red Book.

Anthony C. Paquet left his position as assistant engraver of the U.S. Mint in 1864. In the years that followed, he produced several medals for the country, including those of Andrew Johnson in 1865; General U.S. Grant, and James Buchanan in 1867; and James Ross Snowden in 1869. In 1882, Anthony Paquet died at the age of 68.

Yesterday's headlines...

...are today's collectibles.

In 1976, 407,283 silver dollars were purchased for $7.3 million from the estate of millionaire LaVere Redfield. This was the world's largest private numismatic transaction — later recorded in the Guinness Book of World Records and in countless national news stories. Today, New England Rare Coin Galleries offers a special selection of Morgan Dollars from this historic hoard — each hand selected by our own numismatists.

World Coins

Collecting ancient and world coins is one of man's oldest hobbies. The Emperor Nero collected coins from Greece. Fourteenth century Italian nobles collected Roman coins. English gentlemen of old considered the study of ancient coins a crucial part of a proper education. Today, ancient and world coin collecting is the fastest-growing area in numismatics.

Inventory Selections is proud to present the following offerings of ancient and world coins taken from the latest issue of New England's bi-monthly world coin catalog, New England World Selections. When ordering, please refer to the "W-numbers" that appear before each coin listing. If you'd like a free trial subscription to New England World Selections, which offers New England's entire ancient and world coin inventory, call or write to New England Rare Coin Galleries.

A U.S. CURRENCY SPECIAL

$1 "HAWAII" SMALL SIZE SILVER CERTIFICATE

In October, New England Rare Coin Galleries is offering $1 "Hawaii" Small Size Silver Certificates FR# 2300 at special value prices. During the early stages of World War II, concern was expressed that since the Japanese were gaining strongholds in many of the Pacific islands, the possibility existed that Hawaii could be invaded. Against this threat, the Bureau of Engraving and Printing overprinted $1 1935-A Silver Certificates and $5, $10, and $20 Federal Reserve Notes from San Francisco with the word "Hawaii" and changed the color of the seal and serial numbers to brown. Because of their distinctive appearance, this currency issue could easily be devalued in the event of Japanese invasion. It circulated exclusively in the Territory of Hawaii between June 8, 1942 and October 22, 1944.

1. Guarantees

☐ Grading

We guarantee that coins purchased from us are graded correctly and will meet our high standards when you wish to sell them. Further, we guarantee to purchase these coins at the same grade at which they were sold, or sell them for you at auction cataloged at the same grade at which you purchased them.

Our grading system is patterned after that of the American Numismatic Association. Developed in 1978, the A.N.A. System is rapidly being adopted by virtually the entire professional numismatic community. Its designations are:

|                         |                         |
|-------------------------|-------------------------|
| Poor.....               | 1                       |
| Fair.....               | 2                       |
| About Good.....         | 3                       |
| Good.....               | 4,5                     |
| Very Good.....          | 8,10                    |
| Fine.....               | 12,15                   |
| Very Fine.....          | 20,25,30,35             |
| Extremely Fine.....     | 40,45                   |
| About Uncirculated..... | 50,55,58                |
| Mint State.....         | 60,63,64,65,66,67,69,70 |
| Proof.....              | 60,63,65,67,69,70       |

Slash grades indicate obverse/reverse designations. For example, a grade of 65/63 describes a coin with an obverse of Mint State 65 and a reverse of Mint State 63.
